

Badminton Wellington – Disciplinary Procedure and Appeals

Values

Everyone involved in badminton joins with good intentions and we are all expected to do our best to treat each other with respect and comply with our policies and rules. Despite this, problems sometimes arise.

When people breach policies designed to ensure the fair and lawful conduct of the operations of badminton, or to ensure the safety and wellbeing of those involved in badminton, it can become a serious issue.

Badminton Wellington acknowledges it is important to everyone involved to respond quickly, fairly and thoughtfully to address issues. People are entitled to raise concerns or complaints and to have those addressed promptly and fairly. No one should be punished or victimised for raising a concern or a complaint in good faith. Allegations are not proven unless there has been a fair, even handed process for finding out the facts of what happened.

This Disciplinary Procedure and Appeals Policy is centred on equity, dignity, respect and maximising the potential of all people in badminton. The following principles should be kept in mind when applying it:

- Respect for the culture(s) of the people involved including culturally appropriate processes being enabled to resolve complaints and restore relationships.
- Addressing problems informally and face to face, wherever possible.
- Treating others fairly, equally and in a way that keeps their mana intact.
- Maintaining relationships and keeping each other safe.

Purpose

The purpose of this Disciplinary Procedure and Appeals Policy is to provide:

- a process to deal with alleged breaches of the Badminton Wellington Code of Conduct and alleged breaches of Badminton Wellington policies
- an appeals process against a decision involving:
 - suspension
 - expulsion
 - penalty
 - any other significant detriment.

It aims to:

- support low-level resolution in the first instance
- give clear guidance for dealing with alleged breaches and appeals
- ensure the approach taken to dealing with alleged breaches and appeals is fair, including enabling culturally appropriate responses and processes.

Application

This Disciplinary Procedure and Appeals Policy will only apply where:

- there is an alleged breach of the Badminton Wellington Code of Conduct or Badminton Wellington policies
- the alleged breach is by a member of Badminton Wellington.

If you are unsure whether the Disciplinary Procedure and Appeals Policy applies to your situation, the Badminton Wellington General Manager can provide guidance.

Disputes between members

This Disciplinary Procedure and Appeals Policy does not apply to low-level disputes between members involved in badminton. These should instead be resolved under the Badminton Wellington Complaints Policy and Procedure. Disputes raised under the Complaints Policy and Procedure that are very serious may be dealt with under this Disciplinary Procedure and Appeals Policy.

Doping

This Disciplinary Procedure and Appeals Policy does not apply to violations of New Zealand's Sports Anti-Doping Rules. Members will be bound by the provisions of:

- any international organisation's anti-doping rules (eg, the International Olympic Committee)
- the New Zealand Sports Anti-Doping Rules.

Selection appeals

This Disciplinary Procedure and Appeals Policy will not apply to appeals against:

- a member's non-selection to a New Zealand sports team
- a member's non-nomination to a New Zealand Olympic, Special Olympic or Commonwealth Games Team.

Complaints involving children/young people

If the complaint involves the safety of children in any way, the Badminton Wellington Child Protection Policy must be followed.

If the complaint is between children/young people, this policy will be followed.

Relationship to law

Any action taken under this Disciplinary Procedure and Appeals Policy will be without prejudice to any right or remedy a member or Badminton Wellington may have in law.

If the person involved in alleged behaviour which may breach Badminton Wellington's policies or Code of Conduct is an employee of Badminton Wellington, a procedurally fair employment process must be followed before any action can be taken that affects the person's employment.

Informal resolution first

Members are always encouraged, where comfortable, to raise problems directly with the person, committee or board concerned, unless there are safety reasons, or the issue is too serious to try to resolve it this way. Issues that can be raised informally can be dealt with under the Badminton Wellington Complaints Policy and Procedure.

Formal disciplinary procedure

Introduction

Where a satisfactory outcome can't be reached informally, or there is a serious alleged breach of the Badminton Wellington Code of Conduct or any Badminton Wellington policies, it should be raised with Badminton Wellington as soon as possible.

Please send this to the Badminton Wellington General Manager, but if that person it is not appropriate, then the Chair of the Badminton Wellington Committee. All references to the General Manager will then be read as meaning the Chair.

Badminton Wellington may be able to resolve a formal complaint or concern about alleged breaches of policies or a Code of Conduct by taking steps such as:

- holding a meeting/hui with the people involved, and their family/whānau
 - reviewing a process or decision that has not gone well
 - requesting an apology is given, where appropriate
 - any other action it considers appropriate in the circumstances, in consultation with the person(s) involved.

Sometimes the process may need to be more formal and include looking at documents, data, and interviewing witnesses or holding a hearing before making a decision in writing.

Where a formal complaint/allegation of a breach is made, and it is unable/inappropriate to be resolved informally, the Badminton Wellington General Manager will work to ensure a culturally appropriate process is followed, and be clear on who and how the decision will be made. Options might include an investigation, facilitation or mediation, or a disciplinary hearing. This should be discussed with the complainant and person who is alleged to have breached a policy/Code of Conduct.

The Badminton Wellington General Manager will confirm they have received the complaint/allegation within three working days of receiving it.

Details of the complaint/alleged breach will be entered into a Complaints Register.

When considering the complaint/allegation, the Badminton Wellington General Manager will consider:

- what the complaint/allegation is about
- how serious or urgent the complaint/allegation is
- whether there is a set process for the type of complaint/allegation
- culturally appropriate processes depending on the parties involved
- whether the complaint/allegation may indicate a broader problem
- what risks the complaint/allegation raises for Badminton Wellington
- what kind of resolution the complainant is seeking
- any other relevant information.

The Badminton Wellington General Manager will decide whether:

- there is no clear basis for the complaint/allegation and no action can be taken (and an explanation given to the complainant)
- the complaint/allegation can be resolved informally
- a formal process is needed.

All processes for resolving matters will be run in good faith, culturally appropriate and follow the principles of natural justice. This includes not reaching conclusions before going through a proper process and making sure the person allegedly in breach has access to all relevant information and support. A simple test for running processes and making decisions is 'what would a fair and reasonable person have done in the circumstances'?

Key elements of a fair process include:

- The member complained about, or allegedly in breach, should be told details of the allegation(s) as soon as possible.
- The member complained about, or allegedly in breach, should be given a reasonable opportunity to respond to the allegation.
- The member's explanations should be fully considered before any conclusions are reached.
- The outcome, with a summary of the allegation, the evidence considered, any explanations given and the reasons for the decision should be recorded in writing and given to the people directly involved.

Investigation

The Badminton Wellington General Manager may decide to investigate alleged breaches of the Badminton Wellington Code of Conduct or any Badminton Wellington policies.

External investigations (or prosecutions by Police) are not a substitute for required internal processes, for example disciplinary processes under this policy or employment processes. The Badminton Wellington General Manager may put an investigation of any alleged breach or enforcement of any sanctions on hold where there is an ongoing investigation by an outside agency.

Appointment of investigator

If required, the Badminton Wellington General Manager will appoint an appropriately qualified person to undertake a fact-finding investigation. In doing so, the Badminton Wellington General Manager will consider the needs of parties involved for a culturally appropriate investigation process and ensure any appointments be guided by that process.

The investigator will consult with all affected parties about any process before commencing.

No person who has an actual or potential conflict of interest which may affect their impartiality (or the appearance of impartiality) may undertake the investigation.

Investigation process

The investigator will meet separately with the parties. These meetings will be held at a time and place and run according to a protocol/agenda that suits everyone, to the extent possible.

Members can have a lawyer, advocate, and/or support person(s) (including family/whānau) at any meeting, who can make submissions on that person's behalf.

The investigator can request an interview with any person and request any evidence they think is relevant.

If a member or witness declines to participate in the investigation process, the investigator will make a finding of fact based on all of the information available to them at the time.

Where a party wants to rely on documents, these must be sent to the investigator who will provide them to the other party.

All information discussed in the course of the investigation will be confidential, unless disclosure is required by law or to protect the safety of any person.

The investigator will make a draft finding based on all the information available to them and provide it to both parties for comment. Both parties will be given a reasonable time to provide feedback.

The investigator's final report will take this feedback into account.

Decision

General justice and fairness

After receiving the investigator's report, the Badminton Wellington General Manager will make their decision in the following way:

- Consistent with a fair process (see page 3).
- Consistent with any contractual or employment rules that apply.
- Based on the evidence presented to the Badminton Wellington General Manager.
- Reflective of the seriousness of the findings.

Written decision

The Badminton Wellington General Manager will provide a written decision to the parties, which sets out the reasons for the decision, as soon as possible.
